Customer Reviews

This beautiful book has been the source of wonderful meals, inspired by the deep, imaginative recipes, exploring the best of the Pacific Northwest. Schreiber puts his own interesting spin on classic flavor combinations. Recipes are complex, but are easily broken down into do-able steps. They are not overly cheffy, and have been well tested for home kitchens. This was one of my favorite cookbooks of the year, and I own a lot of cookbooks.

Many have been the times I have savored the tastes of Cory Schrieber's Pacific Northwest cooking at his top Wildwood restaurant. To see his philosophy, outlook and family enveloped in these very real recipes featuring the foods and flavors of this rich region is simply a delight! The way Cory weaves local and history into the regional introductions of sensuous, but palate-cleansing dishes is simply amazing. This is a book to be cooked from and curled up with on a rainy afternoon for a good read, and then to be drawn from the shelf again, and again.

I don't usually buy cookbooks because I prefer to find recipes on internet but this book has a style of cooking which is natural yet with a special touch and all of the recipes are worth having. I have bought various copies, for myself and for gifts.

It's a wonderful book of history, Portland people from the past, tradition, and oh yes great recipes. How did a book about cooking hold me for 1 1/2 hours? Very interesting and very well written!

This cookbook has some great and innovative recipes. I bought it specifically for the pizza crust recipe, but just finished preparing the Pinot noir chicken. Fabulous!!! Many favorites for salmon, clams, and other seafoods, great marinades.

The vendor was terrific...quick and efficient! The book very well packed and in mint condition! This cookbook is not easy to find. A terrific experience!

a good book full of good recipes - most are beyond my budget, but a few are very good.

Fantastic cookbook. Beautiful photos and recipes that are stunning. Local foods and people. A must for anyone who enjoys food and life!
