Customer Reviews

I know a lot of love went into the making of this calendar. I have very much enjoyed working through the blocks in the book A New Hexagon, by the same author. My expectation of this block a day calendar was that it would be in the same size and format as the blocks in the book. With the book, I may simply photocopy the block onto 100# card stock and make my block. With the calendar, that is not possible as the blocks are represented as smaller, full color photographs. The calendar is lovely as a calendar, but not practical as a fractured hexagon pattern per day guide. To be fair, there are full sized single templates in the back, i.e. Hex 1, hex 3, diamond 2, but it makes it difficult to use without purchasing packs of paper pieces or acrylic templates (both are optional, and unnecessary with the book). I had inquired and hoped that a digital guide would be offered with the calendar as it was with the book. Alas, no. A real shame. I know this calendar will sell well as a calendar, but for those of us wanting more of what was offered with the book, it is a bit disappointing.

If you love to do english paper piecing, this is the perfect book for you! The designs enclosed run the gamut from being similar to ones in the New hexagon book to some really intense designs with teeny tiny pieces. Each day is a new block. There is a key in the back of the calendar to identify which templates are needed to complete each design. The challenge is on!

I love "page a day" calendars. Each day you get to flip a page and see a new piece of art. In this case the art is a hexagon quilt blocks. They are so pretty and inspiring. The fabric prints and colors are so cheery and fun. Along with the beautiful quilt blocks there are also patterns and a bit of piecing and cutting tutorials included. I am really looking forward to using this calendar year after year as it is designed as a perpetual calendar with no days of the week.

Great hexagon calendar that gives you a hexagon a day with the pattern to make it on the same page. Tells you the paper pieces you need for each one. Perfect for the paper piecer or Quilter's.

I love Katja's patterns and this is full of them. I will enjoy looking at them as well as making them for years to come.

I have Katja's book and have followed along in some of her quilt-a-longs. I love the calendar, which offers new blocks.

I love it! I enjoy seeing a new block and fabrics every day.
