This collection from the Junior League of Rochester soars above the typical community cookbook. A midwesterner, I became aware of it when a neighbor who hailed from Rochester served a fabulous dish from its pages. As years passed, it seemed that all the recipes I pleaded for came from Applehood & Motherpie, so it was time to procure my own copy. I've since given other copies to friends who have asked for the same recipes. So now there is an unofficial midwestern branch of the Rochester Junior League.

Junior League Cookery Books Are Real Finds. The Back Bone of America and All Her Magnificence. Recipes brought over from Someone's "Old Country". This book, especially does have Everything Anyone could Desire. Was Astounded that it was not All about Seafood. It is Honest, Simply Lovely Recipes that can Be served to Anyone. Families. Entertaining. Boss over for Dinner. A last minute child at Table because too late to drive Little One Home. There is Easy to Decadent. As Rich as desire or Wholesome too. A nice balance of how to make a batch of Granola to How to prepare Chicken in a dozen ways.Or,terrific Vegetarian Dishes.This Is the Best Junior League Book Purchased in Memory.Plus,Love a recipe for Brown Bread Baked in a Tin!Spread w/Greek Yogurt,Yum!

You can read my review of the contents on the "paperback" page (<http://www..com/Applehood-Motherpie-Junior-League-Rochester/product-reviews/0960561226>). I recommend the ringbound, which I have, because it opens up and the bottom 1/3 pushes back to form its own stand, making it easy to read and keep clean. I don't know what the paperback edition is like, but I doubt it's very easy to work with. The ringbound is worth the extra money!

What a great cookbook! I grew up in Rochester & remember these recipes above all others. Do yourself a favor & try the carrot cake.

This cookbook is fool proof and red hot. Buy multiple copies and give it to your friends. I am a Southern food aficionado, but I enthusiastically admit that those western NY Yankees sure can cook.

This is a local cookbook, but one of the best I have ever owned. I have purchased it as gifts for many people. If I am looking for an idea, I always check out the green book first.

I love this cookbook. Have had it myself for many years, and bought this one for my daughter.

Classic cookbook. Our second copy , the first was loaned out and they refused to return it.
